

Health Care

- All health care providers are aware of the positive impact breastfeeding/bodyfeeding has on health outcomes in their specialization and are skilled at protecting breastfeeding/bodyfeeding in their care plans, including during medical intervention
- All healthcare providers utilize a referral system that supports families to find culturally relevant, skilled care rooted in their communities
- All health care providers have written policies in place that are publicly shared to ensure breastfeeding/bodyfeeding is protected within their offices and provide education to staff for supporting breastfeeding/bodyfeeding families
- All health care spaces encourage and promote breastfeeding/bodyfeeding for those visiting and/or undergoing procedures (for example, the emergency department, outpatient offices, specialty clinics)
- All health care providers have access to and utilize current evidence-based information for human milk and medications compatibility

Tools to support these priorities are available for download at www.mibreastfeeding.org/tools.