WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING

"This seminar has provided me with profound insights into the unique challenges and opportunities surrounding lactation support within carceral settings. Through an exploration of the Michigan Prison Doula Initiative's innovative approach, I've gained a deeper understanding of the importance of providing compassionate, comprehensive care to incarcerated individuals during pregnancy and postpartum. The seminar highlighted the significance of trauma-informed practices, cultural humility, and advocacy in addressing the diverse needs of birthing individuals behind bars. I now appreciate the vital role of doulas in offering emotional support, education, and lactation assistance to incarcerated parents, fostering empowerment and connection amidst challenging circumstances. Armed with this knowledge, I am better equipped to advocate for inclusive, dignified care within carceral settings and contribute to initiatives aimed at promoting equitable access to lactation support."
